Reference: Suicidal subject talked out of house

Earlier this week Tarrant County Sheriff Warrant Deputies were attempting to serve a warrant in southwest Fort Worth on a subject on probation who had cut off his ankle monitor.

Before deputies could enter the home, the subject made statements that he would harm himself there was also a chance a woman was in the home with this individual. For the safety of everyone involved, deputies pulled back from the residence, SWAT was called in along with a negotiator to talk to subject out of the home.

After more than four hours, the subject finally surrendered. No one else was in the home.

This incident is a great example of how well each of our teams work together to end a critical incident, such as this, peacefully with no injuries.

We thank the Fort Worth Police Department for their assistance with this incident.
